BRIEF DELAY — "Santa," in order to accommodate all those on his list, found little time to rest during his hectic day of making Christmas deliveries. Our photographer, however, did catch him as he made a brief pause at the home of Harold Reaser of 1928 Laurel St., Stroudsburg. "Santa" had taken time out to rest his tired feet. Christmas Messages Urge Peace In A Fearful World

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Christian religious and governmental leaders called for peace Monday in Christmas messages to a world beset by minor wars and concerned about East-West differences that might lead to a nuclear clash.

Unresolved quarrels on Berlin, the Congo and other global hotspots formed a background for church services hailing the anniversary of the birth in Bethlehem of Jesus Christ, the Prince of peace. Palestinians, pilgrims and tourists packed shrines of the Holy Land.

Ringed by Communist concrete and wire, West Berliners received assurance from President Kennedy that the United States is determined to support and sustain them in freedom.

On Your Side

"We are on your side now—as before," Kennedy said in a message broadcast in a special TV program. "We shall stay. Until truly there is good will among men, not walls to divide them, our pursuit of peace shall continue."

Tension was telling on West Berliners, however. Three committed suicide. Social workers specially assigned to cheer up the despondent said they received 60 telephone calls—twice the usual number—on Christmas Eve.

Pope John XXIII chose Christmas day to call an ecumenical (worldwide) council of the Roman Catholic Church for 1962. The exact date of the council, expected to open late next year, will be announced later. The Pope expressed grave concern over communism's militant atheism. He gave his blessing urbi et orbi—to the city of Rome and the world.

The archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Arthur M. Ramsay, head of the Church of England, called on all nations to join in a battle against poverty. He said the urgent message of Christmas is "to serve those in distress, the homeless, the refugees."

Roman Catholic priests of Goa, chief of the three Portuguese enclaves that fell to India's invading armed forces last week, offered prayers for the prosperity of India and Goa and a long life for Prime Minister Nehru.

How Far?

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany—citing India's conquest of Goa, the United Nations' use of force in the Congo and German border incidents—observed "how far is the world from the peace proclaimed by the Christmas gospels."

Queen Elizabeth II broadcast to the varied nations of the British Commonwealth a message of encouragement to "the quiet people who fight prejudice by example." She called for youths to serve humanity, saying "the world desperately needs their vigor, their determination and their service to their fellow man."

King Baudouin told the Belgians the new United Europe "which is building under our eyes must become a powerful element for world peace."

President Sukarno of predominantly Moslem Indonesia, who has threatened armed action to win possession of Dutch West New Guinea, called on Indonesian Christians for stronger efforts "to liquidate all forms of oppression still prevailing in the world."

In Amsterdam Queen Juliana asked the Dutch to respect "other people's freedom—in particular the freedom of an entire nation to make its own choice as to which road it wishes to follow."

It was a white Christmas for much of the northern tier of the United States and chilly in parts of the South. The overnight low at Palm Beach, a Florida winter resort, was 39 above zero. Traditional family gatherings and exchange of gifts marked the American celebrations.

President and Mrs. Kennedy attended services in the small white chapel of St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach, where the President's 73-year-old father, Joseph P. Kennedy, was in serious condition with a stroke and pneumonia.

It was a day of joy, shadowed by tragedies.

42 Worshippers Killed By Bomb; Terrorist Is Blamed

By JAMES DEWEY

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Scores of suspects were hauled in for investigation Monday night in the tragic Christmas Eve terrorist bombing among a crowd of 500 worshipers at an army barracks at Buga.

At least 42 persons were killed and 122 were injured by the blast, officials at Buga said. News dispatches indictated an additional 3 to 12 persons died of injuries in neighboring towns where they were taken for treatment.

War Minister Maj. Gen. Rafael Hernandez Pardo said "a few" persons were seized for investigation. But official sources said 80 persons were being held in connection with the blast.

The explosion occurred in the square of an artillery battalion barracks at Buga as a procession of worshippers bore a figure of the infant Jesus to be placed in a manger. The blast nearly destroyed the infirmary, the officers' club and other installations.

Lt. Col. Gustavo Delgado Nieto, a member of the Buga garrison staff, said the bomb was homemade and consisted of explosives packed in a water pipe. He said it was timed to go off just as the crowd had left devotional services and moved into the square.

Gen. Alberto Ruiz Novoa, commander of the Colombian armed forces, charged the bombing was a criminal act by persons who took advantage of the Christmas Eve celebrations to gain entry to the military installations.

A woman said she saw a man carrying a bundle through the crowd and that he was one of the victims of the blast. It was first believed the explosion was caused by fireworks used in Christmas Eve celebrations in Colombia. However, authorities said an investigation quickly showed it was a bomb.

A flying piece of debris killed a man in a car. A report from Cali, 47 miles from Buga, quoted officials as saying many of the victims were mangled by nails and other metal fragments.

Political strife in Colombia nominally was settled in 1957 by a truce between the warring Conservative and Liberal parties after tens of thousands had been killed. But feuds and banditry have continued in many areas.

Buga, a flourishing town of about 70,000 population, is about 300 miles southwest of Bogota in the sugar plantation area of Valle Department.

Hysterical relatives mobbed the barracks area seeking news of their families. Many families spent Christmas Day making preparations for funerals.

The injured were taken to neighboring towns and authorities issued urgent appeals for doctors, nurses and volunteer blood donors. An international sugar fair, which was to have opened in Cali Tuesday, was postponed as a sign of mourning for the victims.

Senate Members Of Both Parties Begin '62 Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic and Republican committees each is taking dead aim at half a dozen seats held by the other party in plotting strategy for the 1962 elections.

The elections are more than 10 months away but already a lot of campaigning has been done by senators seeking to hold seats next year and by their challengers.

Party strategists feel that what senators up for election next year do or don't do in the congressional opening Jan. 10 will have an important bearing on whether they return in 1963.

The Democrats will have 21 seats at stake next November, the Republicans 16.

Both Sens. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Vance Hartke, D-Ind., chairmen of the respective campaign committees, voice confidence of big gains.

Republicans seem a bit more optimistic, because they have targets and normally the party out of power does better in the off-year elections.

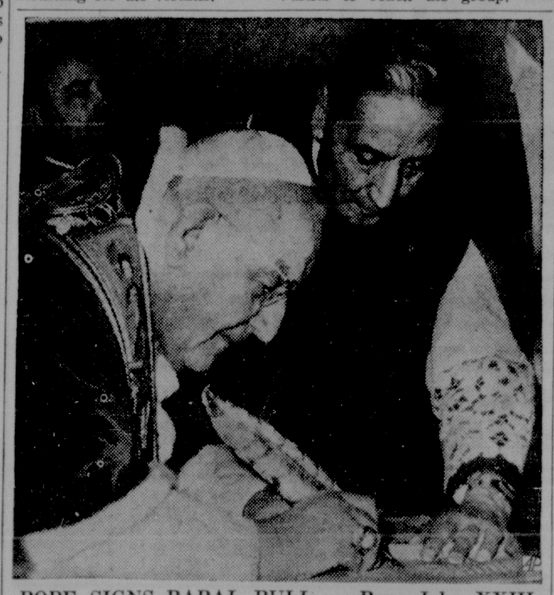

In private appraisals, however, the strategists from each side pick out six states where they feel they have good chances of gaining seats.

The Republicans cite Democratic Sens. John A. Carroll, Colo. Frank Church, Idaho, Joseph S. Clark, Pa., Ernest Gruening, Alaska, J. J. Hickey, Wyo., and Oren E. Long, Hawaii.

The Democrats list Republican Sens. Wallace F. Bennett, Utah, Prescott Bush, Conn., John M. Butler, Md., who already has announced he will not run again, Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., Thomas H. Kuchel, Calif., and Thruston B. Morton, Ky.

Republicans feel also they have at least an outside chance for the Oregon seat of Sen. Wayne Morse, a one-time Republican, and the Massachusetts seat formerly held by President Kennedy and now occupied by Benjamin A. Smith.

The President's brother, Edward, may seek the Democratic nomination for the Massachusetts post. If so, the race will be nationally spotlighted.

POPE SIGNS PAPAL BULL — Pope John XXIII signs papal bull in the Vatican, proclaiming that a general ecumenical council of the Roman Catholic church will be held in 1962. Msgr. Enrico Dante, prefect of Vatican ceremonial office, assists the Pontiff. The ecumenical council will be devoted primarily to internal affairs of the church. It is expected to begin late in 1962 in St. Peter's Basilica. (AP Wirephoto by radio from Rome)

Shotgun Explodes

Franco Injured While Hunting

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MADRID, Spain —AP)— Officials disclosed Monday surgeons performed an hour-long operation to save Generalissimo Franco's left index finger, badly torn when his shotgun exploded while he was hunting.

Franco made light of his injury, suffered Sunday, associates said. But his doctors described the operation, in which they removed fragments of the gun barrel from the general's hand, as most delicate. They also removed fragments of his shooting glove, blown into his hands by the explosion.

Surgeons at the Madrid General Aviation Hospital said the 70-year-old Franco's condition after the operation is excellent. But they urged him to remain there for some time more to assure better care and a close watch of his injury.

Word Spreads

He is expected to remain in the hospital at least until Tuesday.

As word of the accident spread, dozens of government officials and army, navy and air force officers hurried to the hospital. The rush became so great that hospital authorities during the afternoon denied they even had a patient named Franco.

As the general's hospital stay extended beyond what had originally been expected, some concern was expressed that his injury might have been more serious than described in the original communique. But his doctors insisted he was being kept in the hospital only as a precaution.

A detailed report by his associates of the accident indicated Franco was fortunate to have escaped more serious injury. Such explosions frequently cause the loss of a hand or of eyesight, they said.

Joins Hunt

Associates had joined Franco in a pre-Christmas partridge hunt in the preserve adjoinging his Prado palace residence Sunday afternoon. They included the chief of his civil household, the Count of Loja, and several other persons.

An avid hunter, Franco already had fired 50 or 60 shells during the afternoon when a final shot exploded his gun, bursting the left barrel and scattering fragments of the gun and barrel over the area.

Franco, who keeps in trim by weekly shooting, was given emergency treatment at the palace, then was taken immediately to the military hospital.

It was his first trip to a hospital as a patient since 1916, when gunfire from Riff rebels hit him in the stomach during the war in Africa, his associates said.

R. Brewster, Ex-Politician, Dies At 73

BOSTON (AP) — Former U.S. Sen. Owen Brewster, 73, of Maine, who had a stormy political career as governor, and as a member of the U.S. House and Senate, died Monday.

Brewster had been living quietly in semi-retirement for the last eight years since his defeat in 1952 for a third term in the Senate.

He died while at a Christian Science religious retreat in Boston. He was a former president of the mother church of Christian Science.

Brewster was defeated in 1952 by Frederick G. Payne. He had served in the Main Legislature, was governor for two terms, and had three terms in the U.S. House before he was neglected to the Senate in 1940.

Brewster is survived by his widow Dorothy, and a son, Charles.

Brester — his full name was Ralph Owen Brewster — worked his way up the political ladder from a school committeeman, but his career was not without its rough spots.

While a senator, he figured in 1947 in a stormy hearing at which he and Howard Hughes, millionaire Hollywood plane and tool manufacturer and moviemaker, engaged in a personal feud.

At the time, Brewster was chairman of a Senate war investigating committee. A subcommittee of that body was investigating Hughes' World War II airplane contracts.

Hughes claimed Brewster had offered to sidetrack the inquiry if Hughes would merge his Trans World Airlines with Pan American Airways.

Snowstorm Holiday

By The Associated Press

THE snowstorm which buried the Great Plains and Midwest, then swung a haymaker at the northern Atlantic coast, took a holiday and left a quiet, peaceful Christmas weather scene over the nation.

After dropping a heavy white blanket on New England the coastal storm moved out to sea.

Operation "dig-out" still was going on in the Midwest. Rescue workers reached 12 persons isolated at a snowed-in pipeline pumping station near Maryville, Mo. They followed a snowplow through four miles of six-foot drifts to reach the group.

Florida braced against a prediction of frost with overnight temperatures expected to dip to freezing as cold air spills over from a cold front pushing down from Canada to the Northern Plains and the Rockies.

Palm Beach, Fla., had its coldest Christmas on record—an overnight low of 39. The old mark was 54.

Much of Southern California had a white Christmas — white with fog which closed airports, slowed harbor shipping and caused at least one freeway traffic.

It was a cold, windy Christmas in snow-laden Pennsylvania.

Despite a steady stream of sunshine, temperatures hovered in the high 20s and low 30s throughout the state. Brisk winds accompanied the bone-chilling cold.

2-30 snowstorm

In Western Pennsylvania, a fine, misty snow fell off and on adding to the treachery of the already snow-covered roads. Occasional snow flurries were reported in the eastern and central sectors of the state.

Most of the snow on the ground was the result of winter's first big storm over the weekend.

Hardest hit was Harrisburg — Pennsylvania's capital city—which got 13.9 inches of snow Saturday and Sunday.

Two Guards, 3 Prisoners Die In Riot

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Convicts started a fire Christmas Eve in a Rio De Janeiro prison, seized a machinegun and other arms, and battled guards for nearly 15 hours before surrendering Monday.

Reports from Guanabara State Penitentiary said 3 convicts and 2 guards were killed in the blazing battle, and at least 14 prisoners and 5 guards were wounded seriously.

About 300 of the 1,000 convicts in the prison took part in the rioting, and police had to be rushed in to quell them.

The prison normally has only 48 guards, prison officials said, but it was believed that fewer guards than usual were on duty because of the holiday when the convicts struck.

Some of the prisoners set fire to the prison's carpenter shop. Then a band led by a tough convict called "Little Miner" rushed the prison armory, overpowered guards, broke into the arms locker and seized a machinegun, rifles, pistols and ammunition, reports from the prison said.

About 100 of the convicts fortified the prison's water house and opened up on guards. Police reinforcements were sent into the prison and their concentrated fire finally forced the convicts to surrender. One convict was killed in this fight.

The other convicts holed up in the prison's pavilion, where they finally were forced to surrender shortly after noon, said Police Chief Segadas Viana. They came out with hands clasped above their heads.

The cause of the riot was not clear. But apparently, the convicts resented tightened regulations imposed recently by prison officials.

Guards said it was obvious the rebellion was well planned. They reported messages saying "Let's fight for our rights" had been found inside the prison.

Kennedy Clan Has Somber Christmas; Father Progresses

By KARL R. BAUMAN

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The serious illness of the President's father made Christmas a somber day for the adult Kennedys, but 4-year-old Caroline got a big thrill out of opening and playing with her presents.

Relieving the sadness a little was word that 73-year-old Joseph P. Kennedy had made some progress in his struggle against pneumonia which has complicated the after-effects of a stroke suffered last Tuesday.

Dr. Walter Newber, Palm Beach vascular surgeon, who operated on the former ambassador to Great Britain Sunday, described his condition Monday as better. He did not elaborate.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said the senior Kennedy's condition remains serious but that fever resulting from pneumonia which developed Sunday had subsided. Salinger added that Kennedy recognized members of his family who visited his suite Monday at St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach.

The President and First Lady, anxious not to spoil daughter Caroline's Christmas, watched her open her presents and put some of them into immediate use. One-year-old John Jr., too young to open his own gifts, looked on as sister Caroline made merry.

Salinger visited the big ocean-front home of Col. and Mrs. C. Michael Paul, where the Kennedys are staying during the holidays, and reported the living room "looked like anybody's living room on Christmas morning."

After Caroline had opened her presents, the President and Mrs. Kennedy drove to the small white chapel at St. Mary's Hospital and attended 10 o'clock Mass. Both received communion.

From the chapel they went to Jospeh Kennedy's hospital room where they spent 50 minutes.

While the elder Kennedy's fever went down, it was reported there had been no improvement in the paralysis that followed a stroke last Tuesday. The blood clot striking his brain paralyzed his right arm and leg and left him unable to speak.

The operation Newbern performed Sunday was described as a success. It was a tracheotomy —a cutting of the windpipe below the Adams apple—and was designed to offset dangerous throat and chest congestion by making easier for air to reach the lungs.

At Mass Monday, the President and his wife heard the chaplain, the Rev. Eugene Seraphin, pray for the welfare of the First Family.

The President's youngest brother, Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, served as altar boy. He had kept an all-night vigil at the hospital.

Only about 35 other worshippers, in addition to the Kennedys, attended the 10 o'clock Mass. They included 12 nuns, Dr. William T. Foley of New York, one of the four physicians attending the former ambassador, and Luella Hennessey, long-time Kennedy family nurse.

A sizable crowd of patients and Christmas visitors gathered to watch the President and Mrs. Kennedy leave the hospital. A small boy called out: "Merry Christmas."

Earth Shocks Rock Kan. City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Kansas City metropolitan area was jolted awake Christmas morning by two distinct earth shocks. There was no damage. Experts described thm as light quakes.

The jolts were felt as far away as Joplin and Springfield, Mo., 160 miles south, but appeared to be centered near Kansas City. Doors and windows rattled.

Earthquakes are not common to the Central Plains. The most recent tremor was 10 years ago, and it was more widespread than Monday's.

Both shocks were recorded by seismographs at the University of California, the University of Kansas at Lawrence, 25 miles west of Kansas City, and St. Louis University.

The first occurred at 6:21 a.m., the other at 6:59 a.m.

Demands Stepped-Up Production

Khru Assails Farm Chiefs

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev has assailed agricultural leadership in the Ukraine and White Russia—two major food producing regions of the Soviet Union — and has demanded stepped up production.

A speech at Kiev Friday, published in Pravda Monday, singled out P. A. Vlasyup, president of the Ukraine's Academy of Agriculture, and K. T. Mazurov, first secretary of the Communist party in White Russia.

Vlasyup had said he was merely following party directives when he kept agriculture in the Ukraine, the Soviet Union's greatest grain-producing region, on the grass-arable or crop rotation system. This system now is under attack by Khrushchev.

Why The Party

Accusing Vlasyup of "toadyism," the premier declared:

'Why blame your mistakes on the party? It was the scientists who proposed a grass-arable system and pushed collective farms and state farms into following it. It was not the party, but science

Khrushchev then told the meeting of Ukrainian farmers:

"While criticizing you, Ukrainian comrades, I am at the same time taking a look at your neighbors. Here with us is comrade Mazurov, first secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist party of White Russia. He will, I think, understand that in criticizing the forest oblasts (districts) of the Ukraine, I am speaking also of White Russia. Let him, as they say, prick up his ears. At the beginning of January, I shall be visiting White Russia and there we shall have a heart-to-heart talk on these questions."

White Russia is a major hog-producing region.

The premier, who is trying to gear Soviet agriculture to outstrip U.S. production, said actual practice had "refuted the theoretical foundations of the grass-arable system of farming."

Praises Ukraine

Khrushchev praised the Ukraine for reacting to party criticism of shortcomings and producing a record corn crop this year. But he said yields per acre still were too low and the Ukraine would have done better had collective and state farms "displayed real skill in growing corn."

Greater grain output per acre must be achieved by greater emphasis on mechanization of farm operations, Khrushchev said, adding:

"Mechanization is now the key to high crop yields, to cheap forage, and consequently to cheap meat and milk.

484 Killed In Traffic; Total Is 644

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic	484
Fires	79
Miscellaneous	81
Total	644

Traffic fatalities closed in on the National Safety Council's estimate of 500 Monday night as the 78-hour Christmas holiday period neared an end.

The NSC said that though the death pace has slowed, all indications are that the toll will exceed the original estimate by as much as 50, which would make the period the worst for a three-day Christmas holiday since 1955 when 609 persons lost their lives on the nation's highways.

A council spokesman said it was evident that the count would not exceed the 1955 total.

As the return-home rush hit it's peak, 484 persons had been killed in traffic accidents. Another 79 had been the victims of fires and 81 persons had died in various miscellaneous accidents connected with the Christmas season for a total of 644.

The death count was running considerably above last year's toll at a comparable hour when 453 persons had become a statistic. Last year's traffic deaths were 488, the lowest in 10 years for a three-day Christmas holiday period.

Treacherous highway conditions caused by packed snow and ice attributed to the rising toll, the Council said.

The fatality toll, which began at 6 p.m. (local time) Friday, ends Monday night at midnight.

Among the worst highway tragedies was a head-on collision of an automobile and station wagon near Warren, Pa., killing two couples and injuring eight other persons. The crash orphaned five girls aged 3 to 15.

A pickup truck and a car carrying a group of young carolers crashed near Marietta, Ohio, taking the lives of two boys and the father of one of the youths.

Fires also brought tragic endings to Christmas in many houses. A father and his twin 5-year-old stepdaughters died in a blaze which swept their home in Nankin Township near Detroit. Three of a widow's five children and a farm laborer perished in a fire that destroyed a two-story frame house in Groton, N.Y.

An explosion leveled a four-tenement dwelling in Rockland, Mass., killing four persons and injuring eight others.

Boy, 4, Dies Of Malnutrition

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP) — A 4-year-old boy died Monday of what doctors said was malnutrition.

They said Michael Bishop weighed only 16 pounds. He was of normal bone structure for a child of his age—36 inches tall—but, said an officer, "was all skin and bones."

Police booked his parents, Claude Bishop, 42, an unemployed construction worker, and his wife, Marjorie, 39, a waitress, on suspicion of murder and child neglect.

The couple's other four children were taken to Juvenile Hall.

None seemed in need of immediate hospitalization.

Torrance police Sgt. John Hahn said the father telephoned police Monday morning that his child was dead. An ambulance took Michael's body to Harbor General Hospital, where doctors said malnutrition and dehydration caused his death.

Sgt. Hahn said hospital records indicated the boy was treated there three years ago—also for malnutrition.

Probations Of Executives Ended

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Judge J. Cullen Ganey, brushing aside Justice Department objections, yesterday ended the five-year probations he imposed last February against 23 executives of electrical equipment firms.

Each of the 23 had been given a one-month suspended sentence for his part in the industry's anti-trust conspiracy. Ganey imposed sentence as a U.S. District judge. He since has been appointed a judge of the Third Circuit Court of Appeals.

In terminating the probation, he said his action was not to be regarded as a "mitigation of the offenses" and warned similar violations by any of the 23 would result in greater sentences.

Asks VA Offices Remain In Use

HARRISBURG (AP)—President Kennedy was asked Friday by George I. Bloom, Republican state chairman, to bar plans to close 10 Veterans Administration offices in Pennsylvania.

Bloom told the President in a telegram that closing of the offices will cause "an unnecessary hardship to 1½ million living veterans and their families in Pennsylvania and is an action that should be reconsidered."

Community Fallout Shelter Meeting Here Set For Jan. 4

A FEDERAL survey to local community fallout shelters will begin in Monroe County in the near future.

The contract for the work has been awarded to Van Storch and Burkavage, Clarks Summit architectural and engineering firm. The survey will include Monroe, Pike, Wyoming, Wayne, Lackawanna and Susquehanna Counties.

It will include selection of suitable sites, procurement of rights of entry, marking and stockpiling of food, medical supplies, rescue equipment and radiological instruments.

It is estimated that by the end of next year, community type fallout shelters will be available for approximately one-fourth of the county's citizens.

A meeting of zone, borough and township civil defense directors from all parts of the county will be held at the court house on Thursday, Jan. 4, to discuss the federal plans.

The community fallout shelter is not designed as a substitute for family fallout shelters, but is for use by persons who might be away from their homes at the time of an attack.

To facilitate registration of buildings which may be suitable for community shelters, The Daily Record will provide a coupon which may be filled out and sent the county CD headquarters in the court house.

Two Accidents In Stroud Twp. Due To Slippery Roads

STROUD Township Chief of Police H. W. Tebbs investigated two accidents yesterday that were the result of slippery highways.

The first accident occurred at 1:40 p. m. just west of the Stroudsburg Borough line on Route 209. There were no injuries and damages were estimated by Chief Tebbs at $150 to each car.

He identified the drivers as Judith A. Smith, of Easton, and Kenneth Strunk, 500 Scott St., Stroudsburg.

Chief Tebbs said that Miss Smith was traveling west on Route 209 and saw the Strunk car in a driveway. She thought he was going to pull out on the highway and she applied her brakes. Her car began to skid and crashed into the Strunk vehicle which was parked in the driveway.

The second accident occurred on Route 191 just north of Analomink and two people were taken to the Monroe County General Hospital for treatment and then released.

Chief Tebbs said the injured were Dale H. Keiper, of Bushkill, and Roberta Von Brock, Mountainhome, a passenger.

He identified the drivers as Keiper and Robert Theos, of Mountainhome.

Keiper told Chief Tebbs that he was traveling south on Route 191 and his car went into a skid and collided with the Theos vehicle.

Chief Tebbs said both cars were a total loss and that he would continue the investigation of both accidents today.

Last Call For '61

It is very apropos of the season, which is dedicated to the giving of gifts to another, that a visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile has been announced for tomorrow at the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

There is no season of the year that one is more mindful of the need of others, and surely, the need of life-giving blood for one's neighbor should be high on the priority list. For the residents of Monroe County, tomorrow's visit of the Bloodmobile will be an opportunity to give the crowning gift of all — the gift of life to someone else who, in all probability, will be unknown to him.

Success of this visit is more important than ever before. A news announcement last week reported that the area Blood Bank at Wilkes-Barre would be seriously hit by a shortage of blood because of a flu epidemic at Lewisburg prison. Normally, the prisoners do their bit at this time of year to bolster the winter's supply, but this is impossible at this time.

So, it will be necessary for Monroe Countians and their neighbors in other counties in the Wilkes-Barre district to take up the slack. Monroe has been running somewhat behind in its quota at recent visits, and it would be particularly helpful at this time if residents redouble their efforts to build up the sagging supply at the blood center.

The hours of the Bloodmobile at the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church tomorrow will be from 10:45 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Donors are welcome at any time during this period.

There is no physical effort to donating blood, yet the few minutes of your time may result in saving the life of another. At the very time of year when we are all jubilantly celebrating the gift of spiritual life in the story of Christmas, it would be fitting indeed if we lived the lesson of the season by playing the Good Samaritan and taking care of the stricken neighbor along the wayside.

Let's hope for a good turnout at the Bloodmobile tomorrow!

Peace Corps Triple

Washington—The Peace Corps is to be tripled in size—if President Kennedy can persuade Congress to vote that.

He has decided to strongly recommend this expansion in a special message to Congress next month, in which he will ask for $100 million for the Peace Corps for the fiscal year starting July 1 — more than three times the $30 million Congress gave the Corps for the current fiscal year.

That was $10 million less than the $40 million asked by Director R. Sargent Shriver, Jr., brother-in-law of the President.

In the President's special message, he will laud the Corps' first year of operations as a "major foreign policy success," and cite as proof the following significant statistics:

532 young Corpsmen are now working on assignments in eight foreign countries — with a backlog of some 50,000 requests for others from several score nations.

Largest group of these "pioneer" Corpsmen is 128 in the Philippines. Other major units are: 66 in Nigeria; 62 in Colombia; 57 in Pakistan; 51 in Ghana; 45 in Chile; 35 in Tanganyika; 16 in the West Indies Federation.

200 new Corpsmen are in training in U. S. universities, and an estimated 16,500 applications are undergoing screening.

3,000 Corpsmen will be sent overseas by the end of 1962, if Congress approves the proposed expansion.

Thereafter, the size of the Corps is to be doubled annually for five years, for a maximum total of 24,000.

Sharing The Burden — Two potentially far-reaching innovations also are under consideration as part of the expansion plan.

The President will inform Congress he has instructed Director Shriver to look into the possibility of (1) using U. S. holdings of foreign currencies, known as countepart funds, to finance part of Peace Corps costs; and (2) "host" countries bearing a proportionate share of the Corps expenditures.

Both proposals are deemed sound and realistic, and to offer definite prospects, particularly counterpart funds.

These foreign currency holdings, estimated at around $1.5 billion, are the result of this country's various aid and surplus food sales programs in recent years. A State Department study earlier this year indicated counterpart funds will soar to more than $2 billion in 1962.

Greatest amount is upwards of $700 million in Southeast Asia and the Near East, with $428 million in Indian and $139 million in Greek currencies topping the list.

More than $325 million in counterpart funds is in European currencies, with the largest amount, $104 million, in Yugoslavia; $94 million in Spain; $52 million in Austria; $32 million in Italy; and $23 million in West Germany. Other major U. S. holdings of foreign currencies are: $51 million in South Korea; $47 million in Brazil; $39 million in Turkey; $39 million in South Vietnam; $35 million in Egypt; $34 million in Pakistan; $33 million in Indonesia.

So far, counterpart funds have been used chiefly for new embassies, to finance congressional and other junkets, and to pay the cost of military training forces.

Director Shriver is also working closely with George McGovern, head of the Food-for-Peace program, to integrate it with activities of the Peace Corps. They have formulated plans that will be tried out in various countries.

Musical Chairs — The State Department apparently operates on the theory that a snafu merits another good job.

That is what has happened to William Wieland, who as director of the Office of Caribbean and Mexican Affairs in the Eisenhower Administration had much to do with the ill-fated Cuban policy.

The 53-year-old career diplomat, with more than 20 years' service, was quietly ousted from this key post and assigned to studying German at the Foreign Service Institute in preparation for a new job — apparently in a German-language country.

But that plan was quietly shelved at the request of the Justice Department, after checking in Wieland.

Now it develops Secretary Rusk has made Wieland a member of the State Department committee that is reorganizing the Department's vital Security Division — at the very time Wieland is being scrutinized by the Justice Department's Internal Security Division.

It's all very bewildering, but that's the way things often happen in the State Department.

Preparing To Scram — Syrian newspapers are publishing sensational stories that Egyptian President Gamal Nasser has purchased a luxurious villa in Geneva, Switzerland, in anticipation of being forced to flee. It is claimed Nasser paid 1.3 million Swiss francs for the estate, and the contract was signed in his behalf by a Swiss lawyer. A leading Syrian paper declared, "Nasser must feel that his days are numbered. The timing of the purchase of hi 'exile villa' is very significant. He has recently been the target of several revolts by members of his army. We challenge Nasser to deny this purchase and to invite the Arab and world press to verify our findings. It remains to be seen if Nasser lives to enjoy this 'exile villa.' It will depend on whether he manages to escape in time" . . . Ghana's Ambassador W. M. Q. Halm, wearing a dazzling robe of homespun leopard "skin," told a Washington social gathering that he is writing his memoirs. Said Halm, "I am finishing the first volume, and I shall have nothing but good things to say about the U. S." Interestingly, the Ghanaian gave this assurance after it became known the U.S. will lend his country $130 million to build the giant Volta Dam project.

Greatest Crime In History?

Adolph Eichmann's role in the Nazi extermination of six million Jews is being described as the most revulsive crime in human history. But the emergence of Tanganyika from U.N. trusteeship to independent status as a member of British Commonwealth of States, might turn the attention of some who are familiar with history to a crime that equates in its mercilessness — with or surpasses — the slaughter of the Jews.

Tanganyika, like much of Africa, was a peaceful and prosperous land, with ancient laws and customs, when in the Ninth Century the first lateen-rigged Arab dhows, coasting before the monsoons from Oman and Muscat, spewed up on the Eastern Coast of Africa men hot-eyed with lust for trading wealth.

The ravages of the Arabic traders had been thoroughly advanced by the year 1500 when the Portuguese navigator Pedro Cabral landed ships on Tanganyika's shores. The Portuguese advent constituted no civilizing force on the African society. They found the most profitable commerce of all already in full flow — the dark commerce of slavery.

It has been estimated conservatively by scholars of African society. They found the most profitable commerce of all already in full flow — the dark commerce of slavery.

It has been estimated conservatively by scholars of African history that in the span of four centuries to 1800 more than 15 million Africans had been torn from their homes and sold into bondage — many of them ancestors of the American Negro today still seeking civil equality and first-class citizenship status.

Against this backdrop one well might understand the pride of the native leaders of the new nation of Tanganyika as it came to self-dependence late last week. The "advanced" societies — which can still produce butchers such as Eichmann — owe to Tanganyika and other African societies a debt which can never be discharged. Their civilizations were built in large degree by the blood and sweat of Africans who died in bondage to them.

Joe Kennedy

In these days, it is so unusual for a father to live to see an entire family grow up who all achieve notable position. Such a blessing came to Joe Kennedy. Although his eldest son died before the father, the second son, Jack became President of the United States; Bobby became Attorney General; Ted will probably become Governor of Massachusetts. The daughters have not married for wealth or position but have established socially purposeful lives.

This is indicative of a disciplined and well-bred family that found within family life a completion and joy that is not usual in this era. To know a Kennedy is to know a clan, headed by Joe and Rose. The devotion of one for the other is beautiful. Bobby, Jack's campaign manager, has been devoted to his brother, giving his time and his ability to aid his brother to succeed. The sisters and the brothers-in-law joined the campaign and went before the public to serve their brother. Even Rose, the mother, now 72, campaigned along with the Kennedy girls. This was a family in action.

Joe has had the gratification of seeing his boys and girls grow into positions of prime significance. I remember, years ago, seeing the proud father walk down Fifth Avenue on Easter Sunday with his boys and girls —then a young patriarch of a growing clan. And he brought to them the ideal of patriotism and religious fealty. Few men could say that they had so completely succeeded in building a family that based its relationship on mutuality and love. To have achieved this is enough for any man.

I have known Joe Kennedy many years and in all this time I knew the depth of this man's love of country. A friend said to me the night before Joe suffered a stroke: "I do not fear that the Kennedy boys will ever disgrace this country. Joe would shoot them if they did a dishonest act." That man was Bernard Baruch who is a good judge of men. Herbert Hoover worked closely with Joe Kennedy in organizing the Executive Branch of Government and always spoke in the highest terms of respect and affection of the father of this clan which were trained to public service and who knew no other life.

When Joe Kennedy was the American Ambassador to the Court of St. James's he was sometimes berated as pro-German or anti-British. Joe was neither. He was pro-American. He objected to any country taking advantage of the United States. He always thought in terms of what was beneficial to the United States and if he and Franklin D. Roosevelt quarrelled, it was over each man's judgment as to what was then best for the United States. This singleness of purpose, Joe passed on to his children.

He fashioned them for public life. He established them in economic independence, so that each could serve his country without succumbing to temptations or compromising to earn provender. Under his tutelage, they grew up solely for public service. He has had no cause to be ashamed of them.

One year, I had delivered a lecture in Palm Beach and, as is the custom, some came up to speak kindly to me and to shake my hand. And along came a modest little lady who said:

"I'm Rose Kennedy, the mother of the Senator."

There was pride in her voice and I realized for the first time that this is not a congeries of individuals but a family, bound by love and proud of each other's accomplishments. These young people were not competing against each other but were united in the strong personality of Joe who bred them to be effective and virtuous.

It is not important that one became President of the United States. This is one of the accidents of life, an accident that might have gone one way or the other. What matters is that they have all grown up with elegance of manners, with a strong sense of moral responsibility, with a consciousness of civic duty. To me, it seems that Joe Kennedy had more to be proud of that he reared such children than that he achieved wealth and position and that his son is President. For what really matters is that men and women are good, not that they are successful. And Joe's progeny is good.

About Town

By Gene Brown

A very unpopular cranky old woman was bitten by a mad dog and was advised by her lawyer to make a will because there was a possibility of rabies. She demanded paper and pen and wrote furiously for two hours.

"It looks like an usually long will," her lawyer said.

"Will? Who's writing a will? she snapped. That's a list of people I'm going to BITE."

The Pennsylvania Story

Presents For The New Year

Harrisburg — When Old St. Nick hustled back to his polar domain following yesterday's strenuous tour of duty, he didn't hustle so fast that he forgot the good people of Pennsylvania—as a whole, that is!

In fact, the old sport left a rather unique package on their doorstep on Capitol Hill. Actually it isn't supposed to be opened unti after New Year's Day—January 2, to be exact—but we had a squiggle-look anyway.

Peering through the wrappings and under the tinsel, this is what's there for Pennsylvanians in the year ahead:

(1) — Budgetary expenditures for Pennsylvania for the new fiscal year beginning June 1 will be increased only a whit;

(2) — No new taxes or additional taxes are programmed for Keystone State taxpayers for the coming fiscal year;

(3) — For the first time in a political coon's age there will not be a deficit at the end of the current fiscal year;

(4) — The budget for the new fiscal year for Pennsylvania will be presented to Pennsylvania lawmakers when they convene January 2 for the regular 'even-year" fiscal affairs session.

Admittedly these items may seem a bit paltry at first blush but they are items indeed worthy of a second thought.

For example, not within the past dozen years has a fiscal period gone by that there hasn't been an operating deficit — and there actually may be before this fiscal period is over May 31, although Budget Secretary David R. Baldwin says that "on the basis of matters as they stand now there definitely will be no deficit."

The proposed budget for the fiscal year beginning June 1 has been drawn up on that basis.

No new taxes. If this holds firm, and there is every reason to believe it will, Pennsylvania taxpayers can indeed heave a half-dozen sighs of relief.

It will mark the first time—again in a political coon's age —that additional taxes haven't been added from one administration to the next, and a comparative rarity for no new taxes from one new fiscal period to the next.

Budget presentation January 2. Never in the history of this Keystone State has a budget been ready for presentation at such an early date in a legislative session.

Almost invariably in the past, legislatures have gone through the official motions of convening and then waited—and waited—and waited—until finally after everyone had become exhausted from oversleep, the budget appeared, perhaps in February, March or April.

To have the budget ready for presentation the very day the Legistature convenes unquestionably will cause considerable shock and prostration among many of the legislative gentry.

In fact the whole thing is rather shocking to veteran Capitol Hill observers.

Much of the credit must go to Budget Secretary Baldwin —who incidentally is a career employe with collegiate training in public administration, business and fiscal affairs (as opposed to the standard political old pro routine).

It has been bugetman Baldwin's brood of graduate degree specialists who the year-long have been sitting on the State's fiscal throne constantly watching and analyzing—and who long ago started departmental fiscal hearings and the draft of the upcoming budget. Chances are good Pennsylvania's budgetary projections this time will hold up. In actuality for the past few months it has been into-the-night for Baldwin-ites!

Old Nick may have gone back north. The package is here.

Try and Stop Me

A week-end motor trip has been simplified and made infinitely more attractive in England by a move Americans would do well to copy.

British Railways have inaugurated a car-tourist service. A motorist no longer has to inch his way through the hopelessly congested streets of the cities themselves and the suburbs surrounding them. He simply loads his car on a piggy-back flatcar, and is taken smoothly by rail to the area he's chosen for his week-end romp—be it the mountains or the seashore.

Some trains provide picnic meals, too, that the motorist can eat either in a dining car or enthroned in his own sedan. After a carefree weekend tootling about in his automobile, he reloads it on the train, and sleeps in comfort all the way home.

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

If you want to purchase Shawnee Inn and Country Club, you can. That's if you have $5 million dollars ready to invest in the spacious and beautiful layout along the Delaware River.

This figure is not a stretch of the imagination but word from the owner's mouth—Fred Waring.

Waring, no doubt riding the clouds after his tremendously successful Christmas Eve program on a nationwide television hookup, says one of our favorite spots can be had at the $5 million tag, providing, of course, the person or individuals meet with the impeccable approval of Fred.

Howard Everitt, Fred's aide-de-camp, informs us that the rumor of Shawnee being sold is as old as Waring's hold on the Golf Capitol of the East.

It is nothing for "Mr. Music" to receive feelers for his spot at Shawnee. However, when Waring makes mention of the $5 million price tag, the prospective property buyers slide quietly into their holes. Thus, you got a rumor someone wants to purchase, but only for, it seems, the $24 the Dutch paid the Indians for Manhattan.

The latest proposed sale of Shawnee came about when syndicated columnists Hedda Hopper and Cholly Knickerbocker penned notes that Fred planned to foresake Pennsylvania and reside in Bermuda and Palm Springs, Calif.

Waring owns a bit of land in Bermuda, alongside of the late Clark Gable's estate. However, he only made his way to the British-owned island for the first time the past week. This was to participate in a golf tournament. His wife, Virginia, has never been to the hamlet which is seven sea hours out of New York.

About locating in Palm Springs, Everitt pointed out that Fred loves the desert country and has many friends in that neck of the woods. But for taking up permanent residence there, Everitt feels that is about as unpredictable as one of Hopper's hats.

Like any man in business, Waring is open for negotiations if the price is right. But as far as leaving Shawnee the price hasn't been just right yet.

Anyway who would want to leave a site so close to the Gotham when video's brass and top-flight sponsors are knocking at your door to return to weekly or bi-monthly airings of the Pennsylvanians.

Heck, a Pennsylvanian just doesn't belong in Bermuda or Palm Springs. Especially not a Fred Waring Pennsylvanian.

Inside You And Yours

More Vitamin Questions

By Burton H. Fern, M. D.

Q.: Will the vitamin A in fish liver oil help acne?

A.: No. High doses of non-oily vitamin A help prevent whiteheads and blackheads, but oily vitamin A can magnify the acne problem.

Q.: Does vitamin A prevent skin infection?

A.: No. In vitamin A lack, open cracks in the skin invite infection. But vitamin A can't defend healthy skin any more than a tattooed battleship.

Q.: Will cortisone-containing vitamin A ointment cure patchy baldness (alopecia areata)? Does walnut juice help?

A.: Neither vitamin A nor cortisone help on the patch itself. Walnut juice might. Its dark stain can camouflage bald patches—providing you're not blonde!

B2 Deficiency

Q.: What is this vitamin B2 (riboflavin) deficiency I'm supposed to have? My doctor says I'll need daily vitamin B2 pills the rest of my life.

A.: Riboflavin deficiency may bring on greasy scales around nose and mouth, open sores in the corners of the mouth and bloodshot eyes around each pupil.

Other conditions cause these same troubles.

Meat, milk and even beer can help supply your daily riboflavin ration.

Q.: Do vitamins affect blood pressure?

Threaten Heart

A.: Definitely. Vitamin deficiencies can lead to heart failure with low blood pressure. Bleeding in scurvy (vitamin C lack) may empty the circulation, plummeting blood pressure below shock level.

Vitamin D poisoning clogs kidneys and skyrockets blood pressure. The more you worry about vitamins, the higher your blood pressure orbits!

Q.: Will creamed spinich supply both extra calcium and extra iron?

Won't Help

A.: No. In the milk-spinach mixture, iron and calcium are changed into little lumps that can't be absorbed into the blood stream. They pass right through!

Q.: What vitamin doses are "too much"?

A.: Check the label for the Minimum Daily Requirement (MDR) of each vitamin in every capsule. Stay under 2-3 MDR unless your doctor prescribes the giant size.

For real economy, eat a balanced diet and avoid the need for vitamin supplements.

Saintly Sermons

During World War II, a German sub commanded by Otto V. Bulew sank a ship. As the ship was going down Commander Bulew directed the rescue of a wounded American named Francis Sherlock. He also saw to it that seven other Americans were saved from a sinking lifeboat. Several years after the war, Sherlock received a letter from Commander Bulew. The German wanted him to write his son about the sinking. "I want my son to know that I did not shoot at men in open lifeboats," he wrote. Mr. Sherlock sent the requested letter plus a Christmas gift.

Former Japanese Ensign Robert Nishiyama entered Lafayette College several years ago. His education was financed by Robert Johnstone's insurance policy. Johnstone was an American soldier who died in the Philippines campaign. He willed his insurance to a Japanese as his contribution to world peace. Incidentally, Nishiyama's roommate at the college was a Marine Corps vet.

Will Hill was a Negro who gained the friendship of many white boys. He gave them kindly counsel and organized social clubs to keep them out of mischief. Some of the youngsters later became successful businessmen. All attributed their success to the Negro who aided them when they were youths. When Will Hill went to Heaven, his "boys," all white and none under 60, took him to his grave. What makes this tale poignant: It happened several years ago, in Atlanta, Ga.

Leigh Hunt's contrib: "Observe a little boy at a Christmas dinner and his grandfather opposite him. That old man's face was once like that of the little boy's. That little boy's will be one day like that old man's. What a thought to make us all love and respect one another, if not for our fine qualities, yet, at least, for the trouble and sorrow which we all go through.'

The holiday spirit is happily exemplified by this classic: An agnostic once challenged a 9-year-old: "Igvieii Inotl.Fw 9-year-old: "I will give you an orange if you will tell me where the Lord is' . . . The youngster replied: "I will give you two oranges if you tell me where He is not."

Dear Abby

Pessimistic!

Dear Abby: Your sympathetic letter to "Exhausted Daughter," whose mother was deaf, fell on deaf ears to me. Believe me, there are none so deaf as those who will not hear. I have heard all the excuses: "I'm too old to learn to use a hearing aid. They're too noisy and make me nervous. They give me a headache, etc." It's all baloney!

My aunt ruined her daughter's life because of deafness. The poor girl used to rush home from her job, do the marketing and run all the errands. She was literally chained to her hard-of-hearing mother. This girl was a beauty, but she never married because she had no social life. Tell those deaf people to TRY a hearing aid. And if that doesn't work, go to speech class and learn to lip read!

ONE WHO KNOWS

• • •

Dear Abby: Being totally deaf since childhood, I can only say "bless you" for the understanding you showed for the hard-of-hearing and deaf. I wonder how many people know that Helen Keller, who is both blind and deaf, once said, "I would rather have my sense of hearing than my sight!"

MAKING THE BEST OF IT

• • •

Dear Abby: In your column you said, "Love is a two-handed game and it is impossible to be 'in love' alone." I have to disagree with you. According to you, it is not possible to be in love with someone who doesn't love you. I know for sure that I was in love with someone who didn't even know I was alive. I'm no youngster, Abby. I am old enough to be your mother. Please either retract your statement or explain it. I don't get it.

SEVENTY PLUS

Dear Seventy: It is possible to "love" someone, but in order to be "in love"—it must be mutual.

Dear Abby: I am married to a man who was married before. He keeps all of his ex-wife's letters, their marriage certificate and an album full of pictures of them together taken while they were still married. I feel that either he should send these things back to her or throw them out, but he refuses to. I am very hurt and jealous over this and it bothers me a lot. We have agreed to go along with your answer.

SECOND WIFE

• • •

Dear Second: Your husband obviously does not want to part with these souvenirs yet. Compromise. Ask him to bundle up all the memories and store them out of sight. To insist that he destroy them would be a mistake. When he's ready to do it on his own, he will.

False Products, U. S. Seizes Firm

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government said Friday it has seized the entire stock of a new firm's products, charging that they are falsely being described as capable of insuring long life, virility and freedom from disease.

The Food and Drug Administration estimated at $30,000 the retail value of the pills seized from the firm, World-Wide Nutri-Health Inc., of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The FDA said the firm falsely claimed that its tablets provide nutrients which will make the American diet equivalent to that of the long-lived people of the Hunza area in the Himalaya Mountains.

The company was accused also of falsely claiming that the pills could promote eternal youth, virility, radiant health, sound eyesight, attractiveness until a ripe old age and could be used to treat such diseases as cancer, heart attacks, mumps, measles and chicken pox.

Charged With Shotgun Slaying

SOMERSET, Pa. (AP) — William Clifford Hileman was charged with murder Monday in the shotgun slaying of his mother at their home in nearby Rockwood.

State police said the 29-year-old Hileman was in Somerset County Jail pending a sanity hearing.

They said Hileman admitted firing a shotgun blast at his mother, Mrs. Ethel Hileman, 50, soon after he woke up Sunday morning. He was home for a probationary period from the Somerset State Hospital.

Capt. Paul Rittlemann of the state police quoted the man as saying he thought his mother was going to kill him. There was no argument prior to the shooting, Rittlemann said.

William's brother, Donald, home on a furlough from the service, was sleeping at the time of the shooting.

Unwilling Santa Loses $1,600

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Nello Pavan, was an unwilling million-lire —$1,600—Santa Claus.

Pavan had the million in his pocket Thursday when he got out of his car to close the gas tank cap. He realized after driving off that the pocket was empty.

Then he saw pedestrians jostling and scrambling about, gathering up 10,000-lire bills.

Pavan managed to get back only 80,000 lire—$128. Most people gave him cold stares when he claimed the money blowing about was his.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

One of the things we did, with appropriate ceremonies, as soon as the din of midnight "Merry Christmases" had subsided was to spring the mousetrap and leave the bait: since our good will extended to every one, even the mice.

Actually, it was probably an empty gesture since I have a notion that the mice — as bewildered as I by the sudden transformation the holidays have brought to our quiet winter retreat and slightly deafened by the din — have all retreated to the quiet of their snow-covered burrows outside.

For the sounds of Christmas around our house are weird and wonderful. Some we share with many of you: the swish of a Christmas tree being dragged through the house; the impatient whine of the vacuum cleaner taking up needles and tinsel and broken bits of bright glass after the tree has been trimmed;

The tiny tinkle of the angel candle, the sound of busy feet on the stairs, the murmur of living-room conversation rising higher to be heard over the clink and clatter at the kitchen sink as nobody wants to be left out of anything that's going on.

But some are uniquely our own: the old floor groaning rheumatically and the glasses in the cupboard clinking to themselves as a niece demonstrates how the Twist is done at Oberlin with everybody else trying their own variations. That's one thing.

For another, there is the never-to-be-forgotten sounds of a Christmas tree—ceiling-high, fully-trimmed, brightly lighted — as it slowly and majestically topples over on a too-curious poker-around among-packages underneath.

The little Christmas bells ring a frantic warning, the silver rain slants as in a high gale, the big ornaments land with a plop, the little ones with a ping, and the wings of the Christmas angel on top make a gentle swish as it descends.

Helpless with laughter" is more than a phrase, as poor Linda, buried underneath, was left there and Ron, the only one alert enough to grab even one limb, was left out on it as the rest of us went into gales, hoots, and roars which drowned out their cries for help.

Laughter and dancing feet, music and constant chatter are merry sounds but the change is too much and too fast to those of us used to silence. I almost said "Move over, mice" —until I came to work.

Even the snow-bound burrows of field mice, however, must be noisy compared to a newspaper office on Christmas Day. The phone never rings. Your fellow-sufferers, still drugged from late celebrations or early risings and the big Christmas dinner, are mute. Even the news is quiet: obituaries and funeral notices.

Today the world outside the home will probably snap out of its suspended animation. You've got to go out to get more groceries, bring in the engagement pictures, and start the round of open houses which makes the week particularly gay. Meanwhile, the hours of silence were therapeutic if scarcely welcome. I hope you were as happy as I.

Don't Belittle Those Years As Wife And Mother

By Roberta Fleming Roesch

"I'm only a wife and mother," a New Jersey reader wrote this week. "Before I was married I had a taste for working, and with all my heart I want to get back to work as soon as I can.

"Right now, though, I have four small children at home, and I feel that I'm making no progress doing anything. I've talked about looking for an office job and returning to work while the children are small. But by the time I replace myself at home, get the clothes I would need and have deductions taken from my check, it would cost me money to work.

"I'm constantly frustrated. And I hate myself for being that way.

Disturbing Attitude

I'm printing this letter in today's column because I'm sometimes disturbed by the number of letters I get beginning "I'm only a wife and mother" or telling some other story about feeling unimportant and frustrated during the years spent at home with children.

In this season when we bare our sentiments and count our blessings I'd like to go on record — as a happy wife and mother myself — projecting my personal belief that the job of making a home and being a mother is one of the most important jobs, challenges and blessings any woman can have.

Plenty Of Time

There's time before that period to work. And there's plenty of time after it. So if it's not possible or plausible for you to work during the years your children are young, don't feel that those years are lost or that you're doing nothing.

A long time ago I read the beautiful sentence, "A mother's heart is a child's schoolroom," an inspiring thought for all of us when we stop to think of the opportunities it promises us for the years when our children are young!

Even Marlene Dietrich (with whom many cereal-feeding women would momentarily change places occasionally!) has this to say:

She Loves Him Because He Is Her Child

"A baby is the all-important. The wonder. The never disappointing. The reason for enduring anything and everything. Living confidence. The epitome of trust. A fragile, helpless Hercules."

Tagore Says It

And of a child she calls to mind the words of Tagore: "I do not love him because he is good, but because he is my little child."

A career and working life is seldom a straight expressway with all green lights for any woman. Along the way there are lots of side roads we have to take simply because we are women and, for many of us, the years we're home with young children comprise an important side road.

But don't ever sell these years short. Make the most of where you stand now.

The Wyckoff Shopper

"the friendly store" A.B. Wyckoff Stroudsburg, Pa.

If 1962 proves to be a more exciting year than any I have known before . . . if suddenly I find the value of the dollar going up and the cost of living going down . . . if out of a clear sky I find myself rocked by a great romance, or my children miraculously on the honor roll at school (all right—so why begrudge me a dream?) I owe it all to Helena Rubinstein! This morning's mail brought the prettiest of packages and inside, deep within two boxes and an extra wrapping of tissue, a four leaf clover pin. Whether it is on one's shoulder, as mine is now, or held to the light, it is unusual and beautiful. Set amid glittering aurora borealis are four petal-shaped translucent stones that look very dull green against the black of my dress, but become an indescribably lovely jade when held to the light.

Four leaf clovers are always lucky, aren't they? So, when I wear this, plus my Rubinstein cosmetics, PLUS a few touches of that wonderful new Rubinstein fragrance Vis a Vis, ANYTHING can happen. Bad luck hasn't a chance! How's THAT, Dr. Peale, for positive thinking?

* * *

Now that the Christmas rush is just about over (I am writing this column the Friday before Christmas) everyone is beginning to relax a bit and do the chatting, chuckling, and caroling they were too busy to do before. Some funny things are happening, and they'd make entertaining columns, but, as I said to Peter Wyckoff, "Many of my most interesting columns are never published." To which he quipped, "I know . . . I know. And don't think we aren't grateful!"

You should have heard Pete and Arthur Widmer singing "The Twelve Days of Christmas" in our advertising department a few minutes ago. They had their own tune, it seemed to me . . . more jubilant than many recorded versions, perhaps, but hardly the same melody. They seemed always to stray a bit when they came to those "six geese a-laying . . . five golden rings." But they always finished together, which is something to be said in their favor . . . and they WERE loud!

* * *

One of the happiest happenings of the Christmas season occurred one recent evening Vivian Shellenberger Gross and her daughter arrived at my home with a very lovely silvered candle in the form of a Madonna, set on a pedestal decorated with silvered greens. The gift was particularly prized because Vivian had made it herself, using a mold. Later, at the BPW Christmas dinner, there were silvered angels at each place, also by Vivian. It is wonderful to be artistic and to take time, during a busy season, to make use of one's talents to please others . . . Beatrice Crowther, wife of the Shawnee Presbyterian minister, is another of those exceptionally gifted women. Not only does she paint and sculpt beautifully, she has also made about thirty of the most exquisite Christmas ornaments I've ever seen, using velvet ribbons, bits of choice fabric, beads, sequins, and braid, over vari-sized balls of styrofoam. What a field day one could have with those basic bits of Styrofoam and all the fancy trims in our notions department. If one made just one ornament a week all year 'round, what a Christmas tree Santa could set up NEXT Christmas eve!

Food . . .

a simple thing . . . yet a gift of God without which nations fall. As an industry, there is none older . . . it satisfies man's first need. We pause and consider with humble respect this greatness of the business we have served for 65 years. For us, these years and this industry are also enhanced by the acquaintances and friends we've made . . . whose very presence now brightens the future. Our prayer is that it will be a future bountiful in good health and good luck to them . . . and to the world, peace.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1961

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Mars' divergent rays advise against over-doing, over-stressing. Be circumspect in travel, exercise, sports, hobbies. Be logical in all. Day requests knowledge, understanding.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Anyone can learn if he tries sufficiently. And you with naturally conscientious attitude and inquiring mind should fare very well. New vistas opening; be ready to classify for future reference.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—A fresh beginning, a revised approach, a different viewpoint would give added luster to your efforts. Remain hopeful, best issues improving. Recognize unwise temptations.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Take problems in stride as they arise. Calm any tensions. Protect personal as well as other properties. Your true outgoing nature must lead the way through all situations.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Ruling planet Sun in a stalemate mood. Don't be disconcerted by irrelevant issues. We all like to satisfy our curiosity, but keep it pointed to worthy items. Your best.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Most aspects today stress discretion and intelligent management in all affairs. Maintain an up-to-date file on current events. Your bright manner can enhance new opportunity.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Virgo admonitions obtain now. A careless dollar spent is not as easily earned. You alone are responsible for your actions, decisions. Make right ones, make them timely.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Mars has sandwiched in a quiet day between two very favorable ones. The point to remember: A wasted day is never regained. Worthy response to your eager efforts partly later.

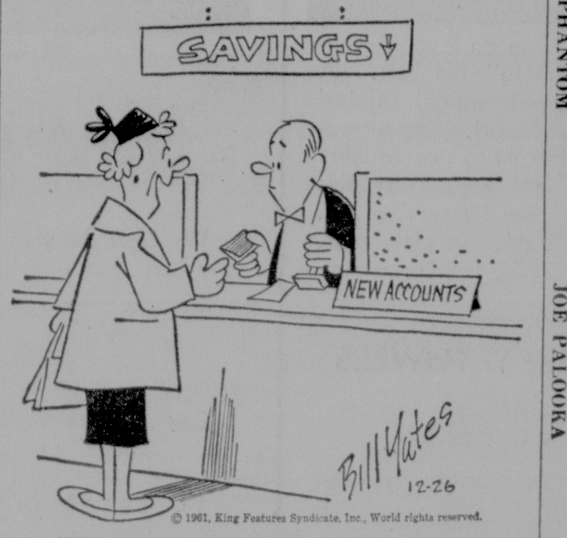

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Take stock in those areas you have neglected. Performance can be top-notch or so-so, it is up to you. Prepare mentally and physically for the happy and holy Feast on Monday.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Saturn is "on the fence." Day therefore calls for firm and conclusive action. Don't be swayed by inconsequential matters that may put in appearance. Pray for steady guidance.

January 21 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Thoughts are close to the Holy Christmas Day. Pleasant connotations, several aspects encouraging. Got all your chores accomplished? Make your day complete, thank God for life itself.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—Tread lightly where feelings could be hurt. The soft word, the gentle deed (normally yours) in vogue and producing results. Bountiful profits from well-laid plans. God loves a cheerful giver.

YOU BORN TODAY at the turn of the Signs, this Sagittarius-Capricorn (mostly under the oncoming Sign) you are generally pains-staking, making the most of offerings and changes. You appreciate the need for tolerance and forgetting hurts, of valued variances of opinions. Capricorn triumphs over difficulty with sheer determination at times. You think best in periods of quietude. Can plan ably and carry out plans precisely. Should be excellent in large-scale projects, organization work, in religion. Develop talents systematically, not spasmodically. Forget old woes. Birthdate of: Sir Richard Arkwright, inventor; Chas. A. Sainte-Beuve, critic; Eric Blore, actor.

Wintertime Is Good Time To Spruce Up

WINTERTIME is an excellent time to spruce up the interior of your home. And what better or easier way to do it than with Deko-Flex, a modern odorless vinyl wall paint, by Felton-Sibley distributed by Hamill's Paint Center, 37 South Courtland Street, East Stroudsburg.

Deko-Flex is a product offering durability and washability —yet retaining that desirable modern soft-sheen.

It dries rapidly in two hours so that you can actually paint in the daytime and entertain at night and there's no worry about odors penetrating the house because Deko-Flex is completely odorless.

Anyone can use Deko-Flex, you need not be a professional painter. Deko-Flex leaves no brush or lap marks. You can stop in the middle of a wall and go back hours later and take-up where you left off.

Hamill's also stress the point that Deko-Flex covers most surfaces of interior walls. However, it is not recommended for wall paneling or trim.

It can be applied with brush or roller very easily. And you can wash out your equipment with soap and water.

ON THE HOUSE

What's new on the market?

The product — A kit which contains all the hardware required to build a 32-inch-square tool or all-purpose cabinet.

The manufacturer's claim — That, in addition to plans for the construction of a cabinet 32 inches by 32 inches and eight inches deep, the kit contains, among its hadware, a set of four exclusive corner brackets that eliminate all mitering and dadoing.

The product: A kit for making ceramic tile and similar repairs.

The manufacturer's claim: That this kit, which contains a grout mix, mortar box, trowel and mixer-edger, can be used for applying a mixture which dries to a white, rock-hard finish that resembles porcelain and therefore is especially useful in the bathroom.

"DO-IT-YOURSELF" may not be new, but modern products and techniques have made it a lot more fun. This new Homart "Alabaster" wall tile, for example, applies quickly and easily to any dry, level area with just cement and a trowel. Twice as thick as commercial standards require, the new tile is semi-translucent, giving a luxurious three-dimensional effect to its colorful marbleized design. See it at Sears Store, Stroudsburg.

Here's The Answer

QUESTION: One of the rooms in our split-level house has a terrazo floor. We have been using varnish on it for years. Recently the floor has started to take on a yellowish tinge. We have tried washing it with soap and a small amount of water, but it has no effect on the yellow shading. Is there some way we can remove this color?

ANSWER: The yellow comes from a build-up of the varnish or the soap film or both. It can only be removed by taking off the varnish with a varnish remover. Try finishing the terrazo with one of the commercial products made especially for this type of floor material. It is a combination sealer-finish which does not turn yellow.

Keep the floor clean after that with a mop dampened with cold water. This is all that is necessary. If you clean regularly. If you fail to keep the floor clean and there is a stubborn dirt accumulation, use one of the products made especially for this kind of cleaning.

Italy Pits Pietrangeli Against Aussies' Emerson

By GORDON TAIT

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) —Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy faced Australia's Roy Emerson on the sun-baked court of Kooyong Tennis Stadium Tuesday in the first match of Italy's 1961 challenge for the Davis Cup.

The draw could not be better on form for the challengers because this is a match that Italy has the greatest chance of winning.

Victory by Pietrangeli could cause his teammate Orlando Sirola to lift his game — as he can on rare occasions—for the second singles against Australia's left-handed wizard, Rod Laver.

Is Happy

"I am very happy," said Italian Captain Vanni Canepele. "It is the best possible draw we could have had for the first day."

Just the same, no Australian observer gives the Italians even a slim chance of taking the Davis Cup away from here. Canepele himself said Italy does not have a 50-50 chance of winning.

Neale Fraser, Australian mainstay of former years, was dropped from the singles. Early this year he had a long layoff from tennis because of knee trouble.

Then, when he was regaining form, he developed a touch of appendicitis a week ago. Fraser said he feels fit, but the selectors obviously did not wish to take a chance with him. However, he may still play in the doubles Wednesday.

The Italian captain announced he would send Pietrangeli and Sirola on the court for doubles and rely on a two-man playing team. But Australia's Captain Harry Hopman said his doubles team would not be named until one hour before play is due to begin, which is permitted under the rules.

The Italians practiced on the center court Monday and all seemed in top form.

Calls It Quits

Sirola played singles with Pietrangeli for half an hour then, apparently content with form, called it a day. Pietrangeli went on for another 15 minutes of hitting with Sergi Tacchini.

Canepele said he was delighted Sirola did not have the opening challenge because he has been through a rough period with a tennis elbow and lack of match play.

"I would not like to predict an Italian win win in the challenge but I would like to come through the first day 1-1," said Canepele.

"The draw has improved our chances but it still does not make us a 50-50 chance.

"But our players are superior physically to last year. They have not had the strain of playing an interzone final here as last year, and the players are confident because they have nothing to lose."

Hopman, too, said it was an Italian draw — "the one they wanted."

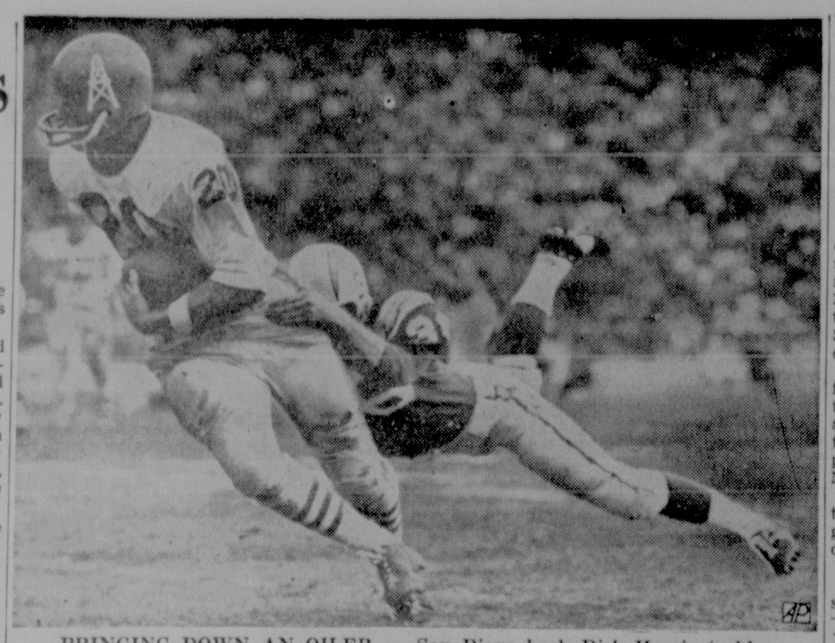

"But it does not lessen our chances," the wily veteran captain of Australia went on. "We must expect to win Orlando's (Sirola's) two singles.

"It should be a 5-0 or 4-1 win to Australia. You might concede a singles win to Pietrangeli but I won't say which one."

Hopman said he had no complaint with the selectors for naming Emerson instead of Fraser to play singles.

Officials expected virtually a sellout of the 12,000-seat stadium for the opening day, which is a holiday here.

More than 8,000 seats were sold in advance.

Bobby Ply Stars

South Riddles North 35-10

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Bobby Ply of Baylor riddled a sluggish North team with bullet passes Monday night and the South rolled to a 35-10 victory over the Yankees in the Shrine's annual College All-Star charity game for crippled children.

Blessed with talented receivers for his aerials, Ply threw for three touchdowns, ran for another and won a top-heavy vote from the press box as the most valuable player of this 14th game in the North-South series.

A crowd of only 18,892, by far the smallest in the history of the game, turned out in cold, 50-degree weather.

Scores Himself

Ply hit Glenn Glass of Tennessee with a 46-yard throw in the first quarter, ran a yard and scored himself in the second, and in the third period found Miami's two ends, All-America Bill Miller and Larry Wilson, with pitches into the North end zone.

Another Miami player, Jim Vollenweider, slammed 18 yards for the other South touchdown.

Only twice did the North offense come alive. In the second quarter, Arizona's Eddie Wilson passed five yards to Michigan's Bennie McRae for the only Yankee touchdown.

In the final period, Wilson threw to George Sefcik of Notre Dame on a pass play that carried 73 yards—a record for the series. Sefcik got to the South two, but four running plays netted only a yard and on fourth down from the one Steve Simms of Rutgers was stopped cold.

Northwestern's center Larry Onesti was named the North's outstanding player, for a valiant effort against a fierce South offensive and Wilson was voted the sportsmanship award.

Double-teaming of Miller, Miami's fine pass catcher, proved costly to the North team in the first quarter. As defenders dogged Miller, Glass worked his way into the clear unnotice and Ply hit him with the pass for the game's initial touchdown.

Ply's second touchdown pass carried 10 yards to Wilson and his third went seven yards to Miller.

The victory was the eighth for the South against six for the North.

Caputo Returns As Phils Scout

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Caputo is returning to the Philadelphia Phillies as a scout in Pennsylvania, the club announced today. Caputo, who scouted for Cleveland organization last year served in a similar capacity for the Phillies from 1950 through 1960. A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., he now resides in Royersford, Pa.

Stars Stopped

CINCINNATI (AP)—Frank Robinson and Vada Pinson, the Reds' two outfield stars, succumbed to Yankee pitching in the first two World Series games. Robby failed to get a hit in his first six times up. Pinson was stopped in his eight efforts but doubled in the ninth inning of the second game against Luis Arroyo. Robinson paced the National League champs in hitting.

Birds Salvage Wrong Slogan

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles have made fitting. final use of their slogan, "It can be done in '61."

The team failed to live up to the pre-season prediction and finished third in the American League pennant race.

But the Oriole publicity department had Christmas cards printed with the slogan on the front, followed inside by the remainder of the message:

"We mean, of course, we CAN wish you a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

In 1959, Doug Sanders won more than $25,000 playing in 30 PGA golf tournaments. He tied for second in the PGA championship that year.

Cotton Bowl's Memorable Plays, Players Revived

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—One of the memorable plays of a quarter of a century of Cotton Bowl football games came in 1956 when Eagle Day ran 25 yards on a third-down pass option and set up the touchdown that beat Texas Christian 14-13.

He was the first of a line of great Mississippi quarterbacks who showed their finest in bowl games.

Ray Brown was the big man in the 1958 Sugar Bowl game when Mississippi clouted Texas 39-7. Bobby Franklin was a two-bowl honoree—outstanding back in the 1959 Gator Bowl when the Rebels beat Florida 7-3 and the 1960 Sugar Bowl when Mississippi downed Louisiana State 21-0.

Scores Twice

Last Jan. 1 it was Jake Gibbs, who piloted Mississippi to a 14-6 decision over Rice by scoring both Ole Miss touchdowns.

And now it's not just one top quarterback who may win the Cotton Bowl award, there are two outstanding field generals in the Mississippi backfield They are Doug Elmore and Glynn Griffing and they'll be directing Mississippi when it meets Texas in the big game next Monday.

"Last year Jake Gibbs was the best college quarterback I had ever seen," says Johnny Vaught, coach of the Rebels. "I think Griffing will be better."

However, Elmore is the starter. "Doug is simply one of those competitors who ignites a team," comments Vaught. "He runs better than Griffing but that Griffing can throw. He can hit 'em."

Other Passers

Elmore, in Mississippi's 9-1 season, passed for 741 yards, ran for 345, scored three touchdowns, passed for six, averaged 32.3 yards punting, ran a kickoff back 18 yards and returned four punts 26.

Elmore averaged 59.5 on his passing.

Griffing completed 50.5 per cent with 785 yards and 10 touchdowns. He averaged 4.7 yards rushing, averaged 31.5 yards on punt returns and took one kickoff back

There's still another quarterback available for Mississippi. He's Perry Lee Dunn, a sophomore who passed for 301 yards and three touchdowns, did some of the punting, caught four passes for 56 yards and did other things that branded him as an outstanding bowl back of the future.

It has become a tradition at Mississippi to have a top quarterback, especially in the bowl

Texas has only one quarterback whose record even approaches that of Elmore and Griffing. He is Mike Cotten. He has thrown for 500 yards and seven touchdowns. He also has run for 150 yards. His completion average is better than Griffing's but is behind Elmore's. He has averaged 57.

Kicking Specialists May Give Gray Stars A Victory

By REX THOMAS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—If Saturday's Blue-Gray football game is decided by extra points or field goal accuracy, the victory hungry Southerners will have the advantage.

They have two place-kicking specialists in Butch Blume of Rice and Don Fuell of Mississippi Southern, but the rival Yankee coaches managed somehow to put together a 24-man All-Star squad without an extra-point booter.

To overcome the deficiency, Ben Schwartzwalder of Syracuse and his associates on the Northern coaching staff have recruited a left-footed punter, Scott Maentz of Michigan, for emergency duty.

Maentz, with a punting average of 37.3 yards for the past season, was never used as a place kicker until he arrived for the Blue-Gray workouts. Since Saturday, however, he has achieved good range, hitting the mark from 25 and 30 yards out.

More Elevation

But the 206-pound end still needs to get more elevation to keep Southern defenders from blocking the kicks.

Blume ranked eighth nationally in points scored by kicking this year with 38, missing only two extra point attempts out of 22 and three field goals out of nine. He led the Southwest Conference in scoring with 74 points.

Fuell, essentially a passer and runner of considerable ability, picked up 16 points with his kicking during the season to run his scoring total to 70. He made good one field goal in four and kicked 13 conversions out of 16.

Southern coaches, on the losing end in the Blue-Gray for the past three years in a row, are anxious to exploit any advantage, kicking or otherwise. Ray Graves of Florida heads the Rebel coaching staff.

The 24 Yankee players and an equal number of college seniors from below the Mason-Dixon Line took time out from practice Monday morning to celebrate Christmas, but returned to the drill field Monday afternoon.

Saturday's game, 23rd in the All-Star series, will be televised natinally (NBC) with a 100-mile radius around Montgomery blacked out.

Quaker City Tournament Opens Today

PHILADELPHIA (AP — The first annual Quaker City Basketball Tournament opens here Tuesday with Duquesne and Villanova, written off in the pre-season polls, sharing the limelight because of their unbeaten records.

Duquesne, winner of six straight and ranked No. 7 in last week's Associated Press poll of top college teams, is the favorite among the eight teams in the Eastern College Athletic Conference tourney.

The Dukes start the action against Wyoming (4-3)).

Villanova, the second favorite, meets Niagara Tuesday night. The Wildcats have won eight in a row, including a nine-point triumph over Niagara on the Purple Eagles' home floor earlier in the season.

Duquesne, led by Willie Somerset, Mike Rice and Clyde Arnold, among others, have knocked off such powers as St. Bonaventure, Duke and Pitt, the latter two en route to the Steel Bowl Championship.

Villanova, with new Coach Jack Kraft at the helm, has blended into a fast-breaking club with a one-two scoring punch in senior Hubie White and sophomore Wally Jones.

Chi Packers Arrive Late; Fined $2,500

NEW YORK (AP)—The Chicago Packers were fined $2,500 by National Basketball Association President Maurice Podoloff for arriving one hour late for their Madison Square Garden first-game meeting with the Detroit Pistons Monday night.

The New York Knicks faced the Philadelphia Warriors in the second game.

The Packers, who had not played since last Wednesday night, were considered by Podoloff to have failed to have taken sufficient precaution to arrive in time for the game.

The Packers were scheduled to fly from Chicago to New York at noon (CST) but one flight cancellation due to weather and two more delays kept the Packers grounded in Chicago until after 4 p.m. (EST).

They arrived at New York's Idlewild Airport at 6:40 p.m. and did not reach the garden until 7:55. The game started at 8:05, nearly an hour late.

"The $2,500 fine is the maximum fine in this case," Podoloff said, "but the Knicks may have additional claims for damages suffered by having had to make refunds. Such claims will be taken into consideration.

"There is a rule which fines a team $5,000 for missing a game entirely. The fine for being late without having taken sufficient precaution is $2,500 plus damages."

Podoloff added, "The Packers had five days to get here. The very last plane they should have taken was the first flight out of Chicago this morning. Prudence directed that they should have taken a flight yesterday or last night and if the flights were grounded, they should have taken a train to assure being on time."

Coach Jim Pollard of Chicago said, "We had three breakdowns before the plane got off the ground."

This is the second $2,500 "late" fine in NBA annals. Several years ago, the Philadelphia Warriors were fined for missing the scheduled starting time of a game in Boston.

Frank Baker Is Improved Says Doctor

EASTON, Md. (AP) — Frank (Home Run) Baker was in much better condition Monday at Easton Memorial Hospital, where he is being treated for an undetermined illness.

Baker's doctor, who asked not to be identified, said:

"Mr. Baker is much better today. However, he is still on the serious list. The blood pressure is good, the pulse is good."

Baker, 75, played third base for the Philadelphia Athletics and New York Yankees. He led the American League in home runs for four consecutive years and won his nickname of "Home Run" by knocking game-winning homers in the 1911 World Series.

He was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1955. He lives at nearby Trappe, Md.

Baker was taken to the hospital Thursday night.

Hayes Receives Novel Greetings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Life is just a bowl of wilted roses for Ohio State's football coach, Woody Hayes.

Woody has not been shy at expressing his disappointment over the faculty council vote which kept him from taking his Big Ten football champions to the Rose Bowl.

That it still lingers on was made plain when his Christmas cards reached his friends.

The front of the card bore the painting of a bowl of drooping roses.

Inside were the words: "Merry Christmas, anyhow."

Buck Kill Was Moderate; Antlerless Below Normal

THE harvest of antlered deer during the 1961 season of December 4-16 was approximately one-fourth lower than that of last year in most of Pennsylvania, according to game protectors' early estimates. The game commission's northeast division provided the lone exception. Buck hunter success there was described as comparable to that of 1960.

Undesirable weather reduced success possibilities, nearly season-long, over most of the State. Unseasonably warm temperatures, "noisy" under foot conditions and lack of tracking snow during the heavier-hunted days combined to reduce buck hunters' success in most localities. Erie County was an exception because snow cover was present there during most of the season.

Hunting pressure, too, was considerably below that of last year's buck season, particularly after the first two days. Some long-time hunters are of the opinion more people would have responded to the urge to hunt a buck had there been a tang in the air and snow on the ground.

The results of the recent antlerless deer season will not be known and officially stated until the reports of successful hunters are received and tabulated.

Antlerless Kill

The number of antlerless deer harvested in Pennsylvania during the one-day season of December 18 fell below the anticipated kill, primarily due to unfavorable weather conditions which kept many hunters from going, or remaining, afield. Although the number of antlerless licenses was reduced less than 10 per cent from the 1960 allocation, the number of hunters afield dropped 20 per cent to 30 per cent below the 1960 total. In the north-central and northeast areas field reports indicated only 50-60 per cent of the license holders went out to hunt.

The final outcome of the one-day antlerless season, however, will not be known until the big game kill reports are received and tabulated.

Field reports on the all-important weather and surface conditions showed a dreary similarity and pointed to the principal reason for the reduced bag—the hunters were not in the woods. Rain, fog and poor visibility were reported over all of Pennsylvania, at least during the morning of the 18th. Ice conditions reduced auto driving and foot travel, except in the southwest.

For the most part, hunters behaved well. Some desperate gunners bagged antlerless deer before the opening hour, killed bucks during the day or broke the law by: Attempting to kill a second deer during 1961; carrying loaded guns in vehicles; failing to display the antlerless deer license; or hunting without a proper license. The hunters' conduct on other peoples' properties was called "good," however.

West's Talented McClinton May Outshine East's Stars

By HARRY JUPITER
Associated Press Sports Writer

SN FRANCISCO (AP) — With all the superlatives being accorded that sensational East backfield for the Shrine East-West football game, folks in the know are keeping their eyes on a versatile halfback in the West camp named Curtis McClinton.

The East boasts such players as Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State, Ernie Davis of Syracuse and Bob Ferguson of Ohio State.

McClinton, a 220-pound speedster from Kansas, may outshine all of them.

West head Coach Jim Owens of Washington has been trying various backfield combinations in preparation for Saturday's game but McClinton is the one guy who always is included.

Crack Runner

The handsome lad with the hawklike face led the Big Eight in scoring, averaged nearly 5 yards a crack running and caught passes, too.

John Hadl, Kansas quarterback who also is McClinton's teammate here, says Curt is the finest blocker he has ever seen when it comes to protecting a passer. And McClinton, a sprinter and hurdler on Kansas' track team, does a big job on defense too.

The coaches and players at the West's Stanford headquarters agree with Jim Lee Howll's appraisal of McClinton. The New York Giants' former head coach and present personnel director called McClinton one of the finest college players in the nation.

Curt, a dapper young man with a soft, melodious voice, says he may make a career of music. But first he wants to sing a victory song Saturday night. Then, pro football with the Dallas Texans of the American Football League.

Both teams, the West at Stanford and the East at Santa Clara, resume full scale preparations Tuesday. The 48 players and their coaches were given wrist watches at their Christmas dinner Monday.

Christmas Letter From The General Council

THE General Council of the General Assembly, United Presbyterian Church of the United States Of America recently mailed its Christmas messages to all Presbyterian Churches in America. The letter is as follows:

"The General Council of the General Assembly sends Christmas greetings to all the people of The United Presbyterian Church in the United States of America.

Christmas, 1961, comes at a solemn and uncertain time in the affairs of nations, but we who are members of the Church of Jesus Christ should be the people best equipped to live through struggle and uncertainty.

Christmas is the season for remembering that God sent his Son to be one of us. God has a stake in our affairs, and in the way human history turns out. The Lord who entered history is the Ruler over history. He can be trusted not to become baffled. He will not be taken by surprise. He remains in control.

It is distressing to learn that today many people, even Christian people, have succumbed to a spirit of hopelessness. The Moderator of the General Assembly, a businessman, has traveled many miles and visited many of our churches. He has reported to the General Council conversations with Presbyterians who have abandoned hope.

Some are apparently giving first priority to underground shelters, hoping to escape the aftermath of nuclear bombing, and some are said to have armed their shelters against their neighbors. The atomic age has evidently uncovered our worst fears and revealed our worst motives.

The threat of atomic attack is admittedly ominous. Moreover, it is now a permanent fact of human existence. But American Christians have a special duty at this time to seek a Christian course of action in the face of this threat. There are certain things which we must take in stride and in faith, and there are certain things to which we must give ourselves in obedience.

The need to accept strains, to participate in struggle, and even to endure persecution, is not new for Christians. In the same context in which he told his disciples that they should be of good cheer because he had overcome the world, Jesus spoke of the troubles which would come upon them: "In the world you shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

Those things which we must learn to accept are intimately connected with America's situation in world affairs. We are citizens of a nation grown accustomed to first place in all things, particularly in military strength. At present we are not so sure that we are first. We are not so certain that we could win any future war, or that any future war could be won—by any nation.

We have grown accustomed to distant wars, affecting us in terms of those who go forth to fight—and especially in terms of those who do not return, but not in terms of destruction poured down upon our cities and countryside. It is different now. History has caught up with us and surrounded us; it is our homeland that is threatened with terror from beyond the skies.

All these things we must take in stride and in faith. We learned long ago that each of us was eventually to die. We learned also that the living Christ, who overcame death, is a pledge to us of life everlasting.

Equally as important as the things we must learn to take are those things to which we must give ourselves. We are Americans. We should be patriotic. We should be proud that we participate in history's great venture in freedom. While we grieve over our nation's flaws and are saddened by every denial of justice, we affirm anew the faith that our country's good can be comfirmed in brotherhood. We believe that the United States of America continues to offer the best prospect demonstration to the world that free men can govern themselves responsibly and decently.

Our support must go to those statesmen who have patience in the face of frenzy, who behave responsibly in the face of irresponsibility, and who exhibit courage in the face of intimidation. If a public official moves to erase injustice in our land, let us support him. If a diplomat stays at the conference table after his spirit is empty and his heart aches, let us support him, and tell him so.

As Christians, let us cultivate in all the world that spirit of friendship which Jesus first taught us, and thereby seek to lay the foundations for international understanding. The United Nations, though still an incomplete instrument for healing of an imperfect world, deserves our loyalty. Its detractors have nothing better to offer. The United Nations has given us a forum in which to plead the cause of freedom. It offers the best means for the nation to negotiate against destruction, and for the peoples of the earth deliberately to choose peace.

We urge Presbyterians to seek out opportunities to widen their world friendships. Visitors to America should find in us recognition, acceptance, and understanding. We should take time to talk and laugh with people of other lands. It is not good that so few of us can speak other languages. It would be an excellent substitute for fretting, and a token of our faith that history is not coming to a calamitous end, if each American Christian would begin now to learn the language of another people, would seek to understand their culture, and thus share with them their aspirations, and ours.

Assured that God is interested in Human affairs and is active in our midst, we participate cheerfully in the drama of history. We are confident that God has in store, not the destruction of his creation, but its completion and perfection in Jesus Christ.

We Look, therefore, to his coming. And, as we look, we do not huddle in underground caverns carved out of our fears, but being men we stand upright, because we are citizens of a Kingdom that has no end. This is God's world, and we trust him with it.

Merry Christmas, Merry, indeed for it is the birth of the Lord of life that we celebrate."

JOB OPPORTUNITIES
By William A. Doyle

Q. I am a sophomore at Ohio State University and I will be graduated (I hope) with a degree in business finance. I would like to become either a registered representative or a security analyst with a brokerage firm. Please answer these questions, in regard to my chosen field.

Are the job opportunities good? What are the requirements to obtain either of these two positions? What position would I occupy at a brokerage firm, when just beginning? At what salary? How long would it take to reach the status of a registered representative or a security analyst? What is the approximate salary in either of these positions? What about job security?

A. Of all your questions, it's possible to give a definite answer to only one—the first. There are plenty of job opportunities in the world of finance and many of the opportunities are very good.

The answer to all your other questions depend, for the most part on the type of brokerage firm you land a job with. (Please, don't say "occupy a position." That sounds as if you intend to simply sit there and do little or no work).

Starting jobs and starting salaries vary all over the lot. If you're lucky, you might get into a big firm's training program. These training programs run anywhere from several months to two years.

Some firms, mostly the smaller and lesser-known outfits, are always looking for new employees. Many of these would start you off, as a registered representative, with little or no training.

With most brokerage firms, you could expect to start at some rather lowly office job, maybe even as a messenger boy, and to work your way up—learning the trade as you go.

Advancement can be rapid or it can be slow—again, depending on the firm and, more important, on how hard you work.

Salaries also vary widely. As a general rule, registered representatives are paid out of commissions. So, the more business they handle, the more money they make. A successful person in this field can make $25,000 a year. Some make more. Most make a whole lot less.

Job security? I was sorry to see you ask about that. In the brokerage business, as in most fields, hard work is the only real job security.

Q. I sold some stock short. After a week later, my broker called me and said that the person who loaned the stock wanted it back and that I had three days to buy it in and return it. Does the lender of the stock have the right to do this?

A. Yes, indeed. This is the reason for the somewhat misused adage, "He who sells what isn't his'n, must buy it back or go to prison."

When you sell stock short, you sell stock you do not own. Your broker arranges for you to borrow the stock involved. You know you have to buy it back sooner or later to "cover your short sale." But you hope that the price of the stock will drop, so that you will be able to buy it at a lower price than you sold short at.

You should know, when you gamble by going short, that the lender has the right to demand his stock. This is known as "a short squeeze."

However, unless there are some very unusual circumstances, your broker should be able to borrow an equal number of shares of the same stock from some other lender. And you should be able to maintain your "short position."

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries).

What is a

SUBCUTANEOUS LIPOMA?

A subcutaneous lipoma is a fatty tumor found beneath the skin.

The study of tumors and all other phase of medicine is essential to our welfare. The more medical scientists our schools turn out the better for our country. Unfortunately many potential doctors and research men may never study medicine because they may never go to college. Already many of our colleges are overcrowded and in 10 years applications will double. We will need more and better college laboratories and thousands more of the highest quality professors.

Day Of Glory

EVEN TREES have a space problem — and for the evergreens, it is alleviated at Christmas time, say forestry experts. The big trees get room to grow, and the small trees get their day of glory.

Conservation-minded President Theodore Roosevelt, objecting to the cutting down of millions of evergreens, once adamantly refused to have a Christmas tree in the White House.

His son, Archie, smuggled in a tree and set it up in his room. The deed was discovered and Archie was about to be punished when Gifford Pinchot, the President's conservation adviser, intervened.

Pinchot explained that the cutting of trees, properly supervised, is a good conservation measure.

Archie wasn't punished — and the White House had a tree.

"In case I don't see you until tomorrow morning, Happy New Year, Mommy and Daddy! Angela Babysitter and I are going to have cookies and milk and read bedtime stories while you are out tonight."

Tommy Toddler is just thrilled with his Holiday babysitter. He's met a new friend. In fact he likes her so much that he accepts the parents-night-out-idea like it were an everyday occurrence.

Children meet new grownups with the same manner as new playmates. Both adults and kiddies are, to them, someone to enjoy being with.

Grown-ups include babysitters. So, YOU are a grown-up. Do you enjoy meeting little folks? Why dont' you place your ad today, in time for parents to make their plans?

We have a special classified section created with the parent and the sitter in mind. If you are a parent, you may be wishing for a sitter and if you are a sitter you may be wishing for a new, little friend. You can get together through the service of a simple want-ad placed today under "Who-Can-Do-It" where "Babysitters" are listed.
